LIGHTING GOVERNS BUSINESS ACTIVITY

SAYS SPEAKER AT MEETING OF COMPANY EMPLOYES

CREATES CONTENTMENT

Twenty-Eight are Present at Dinner Served Light Company Workers at Linville Hotel

Walter McCue of the Shelby division of the National Lamp Works spoke on the subject of "Better Lighting' at a meeting of the regular employes of the Maryville Electric Light & Power Co. held at the Linville Hotel last evening.

Mr. McCue cited a number of examples which proved conclusively that better lighting of stores and homes will not only create better contentment among those using the lights but will actually increase efficiency and promote business. The speaker also cited tests which had been made with show windows wherein increased lighting greatly multiplied the number of persons who would stop to examine the display, also where store sales were increased in proportion to the amount of the intensity of the light and even where factory production has mounted to a high efficiency where the workmen were not under the eye strain of poor lighting. Mr. McCue went into detail as to how the employes of the Maryville Electric Light and Power Company could render better service to their customers by recommending the proper lamp to use for various purposes and explained fully the intensity of light which should be used in various rooms and store places.

J. E. Flynn, who has charge of the merchandising department in the Omaha office accompanied Mr. McCue and spoke as to how the employes should realize the courtesies to be extended to the customers because, as he pointed out, it was really the customer who was paying the salary of the employes.

The dinner was served at 7:15 o'clock and twenty-eight were present. The plant crew was compelled to interchange the time of eating as the plant must, of necessity, continue to operate. Those present were:

Walter McCue and J. E. Flynn of Omaha, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hellmers, R. J. Wolfe, Margaret Sorrie, Ella Farrell, Mrs. Ray Neighbors, Aleyene Smith, G. B. Trullinger, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dragoo of Grant City, Mo., Marion Gile, Eugene Busby, Edward Ferritor, Jr., Wm. Shriver, P. J. Jantz, Virgil Swain, Jesse Davis, J. C. Davis, Chas. Chaney, S. B. Williams, A. F. Seaton, T. B. Mumma, C. J. Vance, L. D. Everett, Chas. Ellis and E. E. Weidner.

McAdoo Wins Delegates From Tennessee

Nashville, Tenn., May 23.—Tennessee's twenty-four delegates to the national Democratic convention will be instructed for William G. McAdoo, it became apparent late yesterday when Shelby County's 160 delegates, following the lead of Davidson County's 134, cast their ballots for instructions for McAdoo.

The roll call gave McAdoo 1,300 votes to 743 for the opposition. Only 1,033 votes were necessary for an instructed delegation.

Mothers and Other Adults Especially Invited and Requested to Bring Baskets of Food.

The children's department of the M. E. Church South Sunday School will give a picnic for the other members Sunday afternoon. The mothers and other adults are especially invited and are asked to bring baskets of food.

The committee on arrangements asks that all attend the regular Sunday morning services after which they will be transported to the picnic grounds.

In case of rain, the dinner will be served at the church and entertainment will be arranged as weather permits.

MURDER CASE OF CHAS. HART ON TRIAL

MAN WAS CAPTURED NEAR ELMO —TAKING TESTIMONY TODAY

HART BEGAN SHOOTING

So Charles Buxton Testified — On Charge of Killing Policeman Less

(St. Joseph Gazette)

The testimony of Charles Buxton, motorcycle policeman, and running mate of John Less, murdered policeman, was the feature of the opening day of the trial of Charles Hart, Nebraska ex-convict, for murder in the first degree. Hart is charged with fatally shooting Less in an attempted escape from the police at the Elms hotel, 111 North Third street, Oct. 19, 1923. Selection of a jury began Monday and hearing of evidence did not start until late Thursday forenoon.

Buxton, who was the fifth witness called by the state told of starting from central police station with Less and riding to the Elms hotel, where they first saw Hart, who was just alighting from a taxicab with R. V. France, a companion. Buxton told the court that he remarked to Less that he believed there was a "pickup order" for Hart. He said he preceded Hart into the barroom of the hotel. For some reason which Buxton did not give he failed to call the station. A few minutes later, he testified, Floyd Idlett, a member of the raiding squad, came up to him and told him to wait, that he might be needed. Officer O. S. Scott was with Idlett, Buxton said. They arrested France and found a revolver on him. Buxton said that Hart was also arrested, but he did not know whether he was searched or not, but he saw his brother officers examine Hart's overcoat, which he carried over his arm. Hart, when arrested, was sitting at a table in the cabaret of the hotel, he said.

Buxton said one of the officers called the police patrol. When it arrived the prisoners were ordered to walk to the patrol, which stood near the middle of the street. France was in the lead with Hart following him, the officers bringing up in the rear, Buxton declared. France climbed into the patrol as ordered, Buxton said, but Hart hesitated a moment, muttered something, threw down his overcoat and ran south toward Third and Felix. The officers took up the chase. As Hart neared the corner Less called out, "I've got him Buck." At this time, Buxton testified, Less reached forward with both hands and was within a few steps of Hart.

Hart Began Shooting

"What happened right after Less called out, I've got him, Buck?" DuVal Smith, prosecuting attorney, asked Buxton.

"Hart from the front of his shirt drew a gun and throwing one hand behind him, fired. John Less ran four or five steps and fell, but not before Hart, who had run on, had fired again, Buxton said.

"Then what happened?"

"I drew my gun and began shooting at Hart and so did the other officers. I chased him to the alley between Third and Fourth on Felix, where he turned north."

"Did Hart fire any more shots?"

"Yes; he fired every few steps, shooting under his arm."

"Did you follow him up the alley?"

"Not right away. I stopped to reload my revolver, and was delayed because the shells stuck."

"Do you know that Hart fired the shot that killed Less?"

"Yes."

"How do you know that?"

"I saw him move his arm, and I saw the spurt of fire from the muzzle of the gun and heard the report."

ARE MAKING PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

SERVICES TO BE HELD AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

All Former Service Men are Asked to Aid in Observance of Day Here Next Friday.

Tentative plans for the observance of Memorial Day in Maryville were made last night at a meeting of the V. F. W. members in the post rooms.

Ray O'Grady, James A. Anderson and Jack Pennington were named as a committee to meet with the members of the G. A. R. Saturday afternoon in order to complete plans for Memorial Day.

All former service men are urged to participate in the Memorial Day activities and co-operation of all organizations is asked.

The Seth Ray David post, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will furnish a detail of men to aid the G. A. R. members mark the graves next Thursday preparatory to the decoration on Memorial Day.

The Memorial Sunday services will be held at 11 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. S. P. Allison will preach the sermon. Special music has been arranged.

The members of the G. A. R., American Legion, Spanish-American War post, and V. F. W., will all meet at their respective quarters at 10:30 o'clock and will assemble at the church at 10:45. Places will be reserved for the auxiliaries of the G. A. R. and V. F. W.

Swimming Pool Opens Tomorrow Afternoon

Spectators Admitted Free in Afternoon—M. H. S. Band to Play

The Sanitary Swimming Pool, Inc., will open at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. In the afternoon the Maryville High School band will give a concert at the pool and all spectators will be admitted to the pool free of charge.

The pool was filled with warm water yesterday evening. The water in the aquarium will be changed when needed according to Ralph Aley who is in charge of the pool.

The prices remain the same as last year for swimming. Ed Kendall is again chosen as Life Saver.

The College will give classes in swimming in the mornings and the pool will be opened to others during the afternoon and evening.

Christian Church to Have Special Services

Memorial Sunday Will Be Observed—Special Music and Sermon—Motion Picture at Night

The First Christian Church here will observe in a fitting way Memorial Sunday. The observance begins in the Men's Bible class session in the I. O. O. F. Hall at 9:30 o'clock. There will be special music and an address by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, teacher. Again at the evening church service, a motion picture will be shown entitled "Tender Memories," which will fit in with the Memorial program. The pastor will use teh same topic for his sermon. To these special services all who wish to assist in making Memorial Sunday effective, are cordially invited.

The pastor will preach at the regular morning service, now beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The morning services are dismissed by 11:40 o'clock, thus permitting students and others to get to their dinners on time.

H. W. Lemaster will Preach at Arkoe

H. W. Lemaster of the prosecuting attorney's office will occupy the pulpit of the Arkoe Methodist Church on Sunday morning, June 1. He will also preach at the Savannah Methodist Church on the morning of Sunday, June 15. Mr. Lemaster will take the place of Dr. O. L. Curl, prosecuting attorney, who has been filling the pulpits of these churches during Dr. Curl's vacation of one month.

.8 Inch Rain

The rainfall last night and early this morning measured .8 of an inch, J. R. Brink, official weather observer said this afternoon. The rain was much needed and will be very beneficial R. A. Kinnaird said this morning.

AMERICAN SPEED.

Development of transportation from ox-carts to airplanes has been witnessed in America in the comparative short period of less than a half-century.

Fifty years ago, a letter mailed at Cleveland, Ohio, would have been received in Maryville about five days later, but now, with the coming of telegraph and airplanes, the time has been reduced to only a few hours.

At 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Frank Cummins of the Montgomery-Cummins Clothing Co., filed a message at the local telegraph office to a firm in Cleveland, Ohio, requesting some advertising mats. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning, these mats were received by the local clothing company.

Yea, verily, passing years bringeth great changes.

Typical Community Program Presented

By Vitalized Agriculture Classes at College This Morning—Surveys of Crops

A typical community meeting was planned and presented by the Vitalized Agriculture classes at the College at 10 o'clock this morning. The classes under the instruction of A. H. Cooper gave a program which would be suitable to give in their school communities.

The program opened with community songs by the entire class. Following the singing talks and demonstrations were given by various members of the class on the work done in class.

A survey of the cost, yield and value of wheat was prepared by one student. It was found in this respect that the majority of farmers who raise wheat in this county do so at a loss.

Posters were displayed showing all of the wheat products and also the various kinds of wheat seed.

Corn is the chief crop raised in the county according to a survey made by another member of the class. Corn also yields the highest profit to the farmer than does any other farm product excepting alfalfa.

Posters were also displayed on household goods which showed the distinction in the old and modern method of housekeeping.

There were a number of visitors present at the program.

Monroe Township Buys New Tractor

(Skidmore News

Monroe township has purchased a new 16-30 Advance Rumley Oil Pull tractor to be used to drag the roads.

G. H. Patterson, trustee, said they expect to be able to get over about 20 miles of road a day. This will be a great help to Monroe township, for there are so many who do not seem to care much for good roads, at least they never drag the roads along their place.

Declined to Accept Taggart's Resignation

(Burlington Junction Post)

By an almost unanimous vote Sunday morning the congregation of the Christian Church declined to accept the resignation of their pastor, Ernest P. Taggart which had presented at the evening service on the Sunday previous. Rev. Taggart's year's work here closes July 1st and he had under consideration a change in location at the time the resignation was presented.

TAX REDUCTION BILL IS LAID BEFORE SENATE

Senator Smoot Announces He Will Call For Vote on Measure Tomorrow

Washington, May 23.—The new tax bill, backed by the unanimous approval of both Republican and Democratic conferees, was formally placed before the Senate at noon today by Senator Smoot, who announced he would call for a vote on it tomorrow.

FORECASTS BATTLE ON WORLD COURT

NEXT CONGRESS TO BE IN PARTY FIGHT OVER PACT.

TO BE UP TO VOTERS

Is Predicted That "Internationalism" Will be Issue in Coming Presidential Campaign This Fall.

Washington, May 23—With America's entrance into the permanent court of international justice as the goal, a protracted party fight over international issues was forecast today by Senate leaders for next winter's session of Congress.

Both major parties will place their plans for joining the court before the people during the Presidential campaign, but the real fight will follow in the Senate, starting in December. The legislative warfare may well rival the battle over the League of Nations.

Washington, May 23.—A bill making it optional for war veterans to accept cash or the twenty-year paid-up insurance policies provided for in the bonus law, was introduced this afternoon in the Senate by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, who made an unsuccessful effort to put a cash option amendment in the original bill.

Walsh, in introducing his measure, said it would mean a saving to the United States government of nearly 2 billion dollars in twenty years.

Washington, May 23—Passed by the Senate, an amendment to the Interstate Commerce Commission, that the act abolishing the so-called Pullman surcharge, today was awaiting the action of the house. The Senate passed the amendment without a record vote. The measure declares that it shall be unlawful for any carrier to collect any fare in addition to that charged for day-coach transportation except "just and responsible charges" for Pullman and sleeping car accomodations asked by the company operating such cars."

L. L. Moore Arrested at Falls City, Nebr.

Wanted Here on a Charge of Forging a Note to Farmers & Citizens Bank of Barnard

L. L. Moore, formerly of Maryville, was arrested at Falls City, Neb., yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Steve Roach on a charge of forging a note. Moore was brought to Maryville by Sheriff Roach, who was accompanied by J. G. Skidmore, cashier of the Farmers & Citizens Bank of Barnard.

Moore is charged with forging the name of Sam Hayworth to a note for $60 on the Farmers & Citizens Bank of Barnard.

Moore waived his preliminary before Justice of Peace W. L. Johnson this morning and was bound over to circuit court.

Mrs. Frances E. Snail Dies This Morning

Mrs. Frances E. Small of Pickering died at her home about 9 o'clock this morning after a sickness of about ten days of pneumonia.

Mrs. Small was 82 years old and had lived in Pickering about fifteen years and had resided near Pickering for many years. Her husband died forty years ago. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. John Herrington of Pickering; Herman Small of Pickering; John Small of Kansas City, Tracy Small, Benoni Small of Crescent City, Cal. One brother also survives, Frank Kelley of Montana, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will probably be held Sunday to be conducted by the Rev. T. M. Walton. Burial will be at the Miriam cemetery in Maryville.

Stickle's Car Stolen at Hopkins Last Night

The car of A. W. Stickle of Gaynor City which was parked on the main street in Hopkins last night, was stolen, according to information received at the sheriff's office. It was thought the car was taken about 10 o'clock. The motor number was 7189012 and the Missouri license was 237-750. It was a 1923 model.

The car was located at Savannah this afternoon by Sheriff Eveans. It was said Sheriff Eveans were after the party or parties that stole the car and was expecting to capture them soon.

Report Shows U. S. Navy Drops in Rank

Document Is Formally Laid Before Congress Today by Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois.

Washington, May 23.—Secretary Wilbur's report, showing the weakness of the United States navy, was formally laid before Congress today by Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois, under instructions from the House naval affairs committee.

Submitted in reply to a request from Congress, the report shows that the ratio of the American-British-Japanese navies, supposed to be 5-5-3, is in reality 5-4-3, with the United States in second place.

SENATE VOTES TO UPHOLD WHEELER

IS EXONERATED BY FELLOW MEMBERS TODAY

STERLIN MOTION LOSES

Minority Report is Defeated by Vote of 58 to 5—Only Five Republicans Favor it

Washington, May 23—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, under indictment in his home state for alleged illegal use of his official position was exonerated of the charges this afternoon by a formal vote of the Senate.

The Sterling minority motion was defeated by a vote of 58 to 5. Only five Senators, all Republicans, voted for the Sterling resolution.

Near Fist Fight at Session of Committee

But Gong Sounds Before Entries Actually Enter Ring—Police Stop Fight at Beginning of Round.

Washington, May 23.—An acrimonious row in which it seemed that the participants would come to blows, enlivened the session of the Wheeler-Brookhart committee today, when it sought to connect Hiram C. Todd, a special assistant attorney-general and friend of Harry M. Daugherty, with the theft of Gaston B. Means' famous "little black satchel" of evidence.

Senators shook their fists, lawyers shouted names and Todd, on the witness stand, spoke his opinion of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, in no uncertain manner before the trouble was quieted.

Washington, May 23.—Police were called to separate Paul Howland, one of the attorneys for Harry M. Daugherty, and Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, who became engaged in a heated controversy at today's session of the Wheeler-Brookhart committee. The participants were separated before any personal damage was done.

WOULD CLEAN UP LEGAL DEPARTMENT

SENATOR BROOKHART MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS

UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

Would Also Take Office of Attorney-General "Out of Politics" and Remove it From Cabinet

Washington, May 23—A move was launched in Congress today to take the Department of Justice "out of politics."

Declaring the Wheeler-Brookhart committee, of which he is chairman, would recommend far-reaching reorganization of the department, Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, announced that he would demand that the office of attorney-general "be taken from the cabinet."

The report of the committee will be divided into two sections, Brookhart said. First, recommendations for grand jury indictment of men involved in illicit liquor deals; and second, a demand for a clean-up of the department itself.

Criminal prosecution will be turned over to Attorney-General Stone.

"I would also place the entire department under civil service and promotions would be made to the higher offices only through excellent work in the subordinate positions," Brookhart said.

Another feature in Brookhart's plan included creation of at least fifty additional judicial districts.

Constant Earthquakes at Erupting Volcano

Conditions are Becoming Alarming—Rocks Hurled for Distance of Two Miles.

Honolulu, May 23.—Conditions at Kilauea volcano, which has been in eruption for three weeks, have become alarming in the opinion of observers. Three violent eruptions have occurred within the past twenty-four hours, one of which hurled rocks for two miles.

A violent steam pressure which is being generated beneath the mountain is indicated by constant earthquakes.

HARVE ENGLAND.

PROTECTION IN SWEDEN NOW

American manufacturers who have in the past favored a high protective tariff on goods coming into this country are now faced with the disadvantage of selling their products in Sweden under the terms of a heavy import tariff.

Since 1906 more than 70,000 automobiles have been imported into Sweden. About 40,000 of these cars are still in use and Swedish manufacturers are beginning to think that home industry should be protected. So, despite the fact that foreign manufacturers can produce better and cheaper cars and better and cheaper fuel, the Swedish government has decreed that heavy import duties shall be levied in order that this competition may be stopped.

Sweden's action is one of the outstanding examples of the protectionist theory carried to a ridiculous extreme. If Sweden cannot produce automobiles and gasoline as economically as foreign countries she could avail herself of the foreign product and turn her energies to the production of other goods which she can manufacture advantageously and export with profit. There is justification for a country building a tariff wall to prevent the dumping of foreign products designed to wreck domestic industry. But there is no excuse for forcing the use of domestic products when those products cannot be economically produced and when the producing country would be better of producing something else. And that applies to this country as well as to Sweden.

A DESERT SEA?

What geologists describe as an amazing discovery has been made in the Sahara desert where evidences of life have been found 200 and 300 feet beneath the burning surfaces.

These discoveries were made during the sinking of artesian wells and a large amount of fish, shell fish and crabs were brought to the surface. The creatures were alive and wriggling when brought to the heat of the upper world.

It would be hard to estimate whether the animals are inhabiting an underground sea land locked in some far remote geological era when the earth, in one of its violent moods cut it off from its native seas, or whether they are existing in underground lakes which have direct connection with the ocean. In the former instance, it is pointed out, fish life could quickly adapt itself to its new surroundings.

There are many stories, some verified and some as yet unverified of streams that disappear in the ground to spring up unexpectedly at far distant places, and others not to spring up again at all. The disclosures promise to be among the most interesting the scientific world has had in some time.

FISH NOT DISTURBED BY SOUND

The age-old popular belief that noise frighten fish has been disproved as a result of experiments conducted from the battleship Idaho during recent fleet battle practice off the California coast.

For a period of several hours the heaviest guns of the fleet were fired at regular intervals, and over a large area of the ocean. Yet an observer for the California Fish and Game Commission failed to note any evidences of fish jumping out of the water as they do when frightened nor were any dead fish to be seen after the firing ceased. His opinion is that while depth charges do great damage to the fish detonations above the surface have no effect.

The effect of noise on fish has long been a moot question. It is interesting to have it thus settled definitely.

Eight hours work and eight hours sleep is an ideal division provided both are not undertaken during the same eight hours.

Now that the former Attorney General of the United States has retired to private practice and the Department of Justice is in new hands, it may be that those who are decrying prohibition because it has not been better enforced may yet decide it is too well enforced.

A. W. Nelson Speaks to Women's Club of St. Louis Wednesday Noon

Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Bunceton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, spoke at the luncheon given by the Democratic Women's Club of St. Louis Wednesday noon. He stressed relief of agriculture and economy in government in his speech.

Taking up the cudgel for the farmer, Dr. Nelson said:

"I question whether the farmer ever had to meet a greater crisis than the one he now faces. He has used up the reserves has had saved through the years of toil and rigid savings. Through no fault of his own, the prices he receives for his products have fallen, while those he pays remain high. He is now entering upon the fourth year of his distress, yet he is not striking. He is working harder and planting larger areas than ever. How we should admire him for his patriotism! But the farmer can't continue to draw upon his resources, because they are exhausted. As you know, many are delinquent in taxes. We can't go on this way. It isn't safe for any of us, not alone for the farmers, but for you bankers, lawyers and business men.

"The farmer doesn't want wages and other prices pulled down, but he does want intelligent handling of the situation. There are four distributors of farmers' products to every seven farmers in the United States. This enormous army derives its livelihood from the farmers. The cost to the farmers should be adjusted through co-operative marketing.

Co-Operative Marketing

"We must make broad and constructive laws to protect the farmers, enabling them to have co-operative marketing associations, through the local and state branches and that all classes be treated alike.

"The farmer can't produce in a highly protected market and sell in a world market in competition with the great production and cheap labor of other nations. Some way must be found in which the farmers' products can be raised to the level of the tariff wall. This means immediate reduction of the Republican robber tariff. The Republicans never recognized farming as an industry. They have built up others and let farming go back."

"The enormous expense of government must be lowered," was another of Nelson's declarations. "Taxes on land in Missouri must be decreased by reducing the valuation for assessment purposes. Not only the farmer, but all business men, need relief from excessive taxation. Every unnecessary bureau and office should be abolished and greater efficiency demanded of those in charge. Three years ago, Missouri voted $60,000,000 in bonds for the construction of roads. A good start has been made. This road building should be pushed forward. Every possible dollar should be expended in the actual building of roads and the overhead should be cut to the bone."

Would Limit School Aid.

Nelson, who is a wealthy land owner in Cooper County, declared for a generous apportionment of the tax moneys to the cause of education, saying that the boys and girls are the state's greatest assets.

"But here, too, the fact must be borne in mind that schools must be paid for, and at this time, when our greatest industry (farming) is paralyzed, we must recognize that there is a limit to which the taxpayers can go in providing funds for a purpose—even so important as the betterment of the schools."

So far as is known, Nelson is the first gubernatorial candidate to discuss the limitation of taxes for the of which they may keep in touch with one another. The farmer doesn't demand special privilege. But what he does demand and will keep on demanding is that special privilege be taken away from others support of the public schools.

"The boys and girls of Missouri," said Nelson, in leading up to his warning that even school taxes must be limited, "are its greatest assets and its future citizens, and the future of our state and the prestige of its citizens depend upon the continued development of our public schools.

'Every Missouri boy and girl should have equal opportunity for a sound education. The support and continued improvement of our school system is second to no other interest in the state, and should receive more liberal consideration in the apportionment of the available funds of the taxpayer than another."

Here he suggested the limitation of school taxes.

In pronouncing for economy, Nelson said: "If I am elected Governor, the amount of appropriations fixed shall be strictly adhered to. I shall call in various boards, one at a time, and shall ask them to make a budget, allowing sufficient margin for emergencies, and I shall say to them: "That is all you can have and all you can spend in your department, because that is the appropriation."

Law Enforcement.

As to law enforcement, Nelson declared: "We all need our respect for the law strengthened and deepened. How can we expect the youth of the land to respect the law with those in authority flagrantly disregarding it? The law must be enforced. It is time for returning to the doctrines of our forefathers, in which lie the only safety of our country."

PIERPOINT DIRECTOR OF THE FARMERS BANK

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Farmers Bank of Skidmore last week, Dr. J. E. Pierpoint was elected a director. A place was made vacant a few months ago by the death of Mrs. F. S. Montgomery and Dr. Pierpoint will succeed her.—Skidmore News.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Ray returned Wednesday night from a weeks visit with their daughter, Mrs. W. B. Johnson of Ottawa, Kan., and relatives in Kansas City and Excelsior Springs.

"It's Always Fair Weather"

When farmers get together and stick together. Then and only then will surplus no longer fix prices, says Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, in next week's attractive big issue of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Either we find a better marketing system, or sit by while the farming industry suffers.

"Coöperation offers the only hope," says Mr. Lowden. "It is unquestionably the most helpful and courage-inspiring development on the agricultural horizon."

Of what value are your bumper crops on a glutted market? Why should agriculture be the only industry in which the prices of the 10 per cent exportable surplus control the prices of the 90 per cent home market?

There are some 9000 coöperative organizations in the country. Congress, the Federal Reserve System, the County Agents stand behind them. They are the one way out of the market muddle!

But coöperation is only one of the national agricultural concerns of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. For it is, above all, the national farm weekly!

This issue is packed with your interests. And there's room for a serial and a crackerjack short story besides. 52 such issues for only $1!

Set yourself straight on these

Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

Announce Secret Marriage.

Miss Helen Hiatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hiatt of Grant City and Lloyd May, son of Mrs. Martha May of Parnell were married the twenty-fifth of last August at Mt. Ayr, Iowa.

The couple were very successful in keeping the marriage a secret as it was not until May 21 that their marriage was made public. A party of young folks gathered at their home Tuesday night and charivaried them. Mr. and Mrs. May will make their home on a farm east of Parnell.—Parnell Review.

Celebrate Three Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Wray entertained at dinner Wednesday at their home near Hopkins, to observe the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Wray's mother, Mrs. Eliza Wiley, an aunt, Mrs. Nancy Wagner, and Mrs. Wray. Mrs. Wiley was eighty-four years old and the combined ages of the three totaled 221 years. The party included Mrs. Eliza Wiley, Mrs. Nancy Wagner, Mrs. Minerva Haren, an aunt from Falls City, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Wray and children, Katherine, Mildred and Eugene Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Wray, Miss Velva Leech, Miss Alma Wray, Elbert Wray, Byron Wray and the hosts.

Bellows-Deatherage Parties

Mrs. Fayette Bellows, Mrs. W. N. Deatherage and Mrs. C. D. Bellows entertained with nine tables of bridge yesterday afternoon at the home of the latter on South Fillmore street. The favor for high score was won by Mrs. J. F. Colby. Assisting the hostesses in entertaining were Mrs. Dale Bellows and Miss Mary Jane Bellows. The rooms were decorated with varicolored spring flowers, artistically arranged in vases and baskets. Mrs. W. C. Chaves of Atchison, Kan., who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Chaves, was an out-of-town guest.

The three hostesses gave a second bridge this afternoon when nine tables were arranged for the games. The assistants included Mrs. Fred Bellows and Miss Mary Jane Bellows.

Attend Dance at Clarinda.

A party from Maryville, numbering twenty-four, motored to Clarinda, Ia., to attend a dance given last night for the Omaha boosters, who visited Maryville Wednesday night. An orchestra from the Desdunes band, which accompanies the Omaha merchants on the booster trip, played for the dance. The Maryville party included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lyle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. John Houston, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Banner Brummett, Misses Evelyn and Laura Margaret Raines, Mary Carpenter, Marie Sherlock, Grace Ferritor, and Lewis Houston, John Knox, Fred Knox, Byron Price and Emmett Bartram.

Farewell Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Broadbent and daughter, Goldia, were given a farewell reception at the Community hall Tuesday evening. A lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, coffee, cake and ice cream was served.

Talks relative to the school and its former superintendent were given by Rev. G. E. DeWitt, Mrs. H. Day, G. L. Felton, J. W. Kennedy, W. C. Nelson and Supt. Broadbent.—Parnell Review.

The members present were Mrs. Leo Strong, Mrs. Ernest Kessler, Mrs. Leo Knox, Mrs. Leon Canon, Mrs. Wilbur Spiegel and Mrs. Furman Rogers. The club will be entertained June 5 at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Spiegel.

Thelma Coleman Married

Miss Thelma Maxine Coleman of Greeley, Colo., granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Green of Maryville, was married on Thursday, April 17, to J. R. Housel at Fort Collins, Colo. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coleman, lived in Maryville until several years ago when the family moved to Colorado. The following account of the wedding is clipped from the Greeley Tribune and Republican:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coleman of 1610 Eleventh street announce the marriage of their daughter, Thelma Maxine, and J. R. Housel. The wedding took place April 17 at the Christian church parsonage in Fort Collins, the Rev. Weaver performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Housel are making their home in Greeley at 1122 Ninth street. Mr. Housel is manager of the Pansy Bicylce company. He came to Greeley about two years ago from Ann Arbor, Mich. The bride has lived in Greeley a number of years. She attended the Central junior high school. She has also been employed at the Greeley Dry Goods store.

Rockford Community Club.

A Mother's Day program was given at the meeting of the Rockford Community Club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Claude Moore. The meeting opened with singing of "The Old Oaken Bucket," followed by prayer by Mrs. Alfred Jones. Tributes to mother formed the roll call responses. After a short business meeting the following program was given:

Song, "Mother Machree," Miss Odessa Wells.

"Origin of Mother's Day," Mrs. Cynthia McAllister.

Song, Mrs. J. R. Evans.

"Companionship of Mother and Child," Mrs. Dale McGinness.

Reading, "The Lesson," by Edgar A. Guest, Mrs. J. L. Fisher.

Paper, "Mother of a Famous Man—Garfield," Mrs. Dale Partridge.

General discussion on "What influence will our present educational system have upon the future mothers of America?" led by Mrs. Ernest Bainum.

Closing song, "Amazing Grace."

Each member wrote a number of good wishes to be sent to Mrs. J. L. Kime, a club member who is convalescing after a long illness. Guests at the meeting were Misses Odessa Wells, Loretta Jones, Opal Mallory of Gallatin, Evelyn Evans, Mary Alice Jones and Mildred Williams. There were fourteen members in attendance. Mrs. Dale Partridge will entertain the club on June 5.

The visitors for the afternoon were Mrs. Will Broyles and daughters, Ina and Irene, Mrs. Robert McGinness and children, Beverly, Roberta and Kenneth Eugene, Mrs. Jim Clements, Misses Dollie Clements, Dorothy Melton, Gladys and Edith Baker, and Gladys, Marjory and Irene Baktridge. The members present were Mrs. Nelson Adkins, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. J. R. Gallagher, Mrs. George Erwin, Mrs. Ike Young, Mrs. J. W. Partridge, Misses Iva Mounts and Edith Partridge and the hostess. The club will meet June 5 at the home of Mrs. James McGinness.

Hostesses at Pyramid Tea

One of a series of pyramid teas, which is being given by members of the First Methodist Church, was held last night at the home of Mrs. William Garrett on East Fourth street The hostesses included Mrs. Garrett, Miss Jennie Garrett, Mrs. John Airy, Miss Lucille Airy, Miss Minnie B. James and Miss Mae Corwin. A surprise burlesque program in two parts had been prepared. The first part depicted a group of Cook tourists taking in the pyramids, with C. C. Leeson in the guise of guide. The tourists included Mrs. Henry Wright, an English suffragette; Mrs. W. O. Garrett, a flapper; Mrs. J. F. Montgomery, a schoolma'am; W. O. Garrett, an Englishman; Mrs. C. C. Corwin, the fat lady who had a habit of losing everything; Henry Wright, the American millionaire; and Mrs. C. C. Leeson, an Irish woman. The "tour" was interspersed with take-off speeches and songs. The Goddess Isis, in the person of Mrs. Henderson Aley, introduced the second part which was a scene of ancient Egypt. The opening number was the touching farewell scene between Cleopatra (Miss Emma Hull) and Antony (Ralph Aley), with a setting in keeping with the historical event. Other characters in this scene were Miss Minnie B. James, the slave girl; Beatrice Hansen, violinist; William Gaugh and Marvin Westfall, slave boys; Miss Alma Lucas, the Sphinx who told riddles; and Harry Mutz, old King Tut, who sang and sold souvenirs from his tomb. All "actors" entered through a door in a pyramid which had been arranged on one side of the room and that door was the center of interest during the evening. The lights were dimmed with Oriental shades. At the close of the program refreshments were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Herren, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wolfert, Mr. and Mrs. John Airy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaugh, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. The True Story of Woodrow Wilson

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

CHAPTER XXVIII.

When Politics Wasn't "Adjourned"—What Influenced Mr. Wilson to Issue His Appeal for a Democratic Congress In 1918—His Troubles With The European Politicians At the Peace Table.

Outwardly politics was "adjourned," to use Mr. Wilson's own words, during the period beginning with the declaration of war on April 7, 1917 and the Armistice November 11, 1918, but the atmospheric inside Washington was hardly less partisan than in peace times. The country as a whole knew very little of the partisan warfare going on at the national capital. Whether the course of the President provoked his opponents to a display of partisanship or whether they on the other hand were unable to permit a Democratic President to carry the laurels of a war in which Republicans as well as Democrats were fighting, it is unnecessary and futile to discuss. The fact remains that Woodrow Wilson was conscious of the partisanship on Capitol Hill and resented bitterly the efforts made to furnish him with a war cabinet. He was convinced that this was not a constructive but a destructive move. His theory was that most of the big interests which had been selling materials to the allies before the United States entered the war sought a means of safeguarding their business by getting their own personnel into governmental bureaus. There never was any real intention on Mr. Wilson's part to ignore the business interests of the country but in the prosecution of the war he had two fundamental ideas. One was that men who had been the mainstay of the American army knew more than civilians did about military matters, while the practical men in the United States navy knew more than any outsiders about the conduct of the fleet. President Wilson gave a free hand to General Pershing—he never rebuked him or withheld support. To the credit of Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, may it also be said that he backed up General Pershing on every side.

But the war was not merely a combat of armies and navies, it was a struggle of materials. Here Mr. Wilson floundered about expecting the business interests of the country themselves to render the support to the officially accredited body known as the Council of National Defense. In these advisory bodies, strangely enough, the first breakdown occurred. The business men could hardly be blamed. They encountered in Washington a mesh of red tape and antiquated regulations. Many of them accepted position in the Army and Navy only to find the question of discipline and rank so vexatious that it stifled business initiative and repressed enterprise.

President Wilson's shrewd maneuver in answering the cries for a war cabinet by demanding of Congress the legal power to consolidate bureaus and cut red tape right and left was one of the most important factors in the efficient mobilization of America's resources. The selection of Bernard M. Baruch of New York to be the chairman of the War Industries Board marked the beginning of an era of true co-ordination. Vance McCormick was put in charge of the War Trade Board which dealt with the embargo and administration of the Trading with the Enemy Act. Dr. Harry A. Garfield, a former colleague of President Wilson at Princeton, was placed in charge of the fuel administration. Herbert Hoover won his place as Food Administrator because of the splendid work he had done on the American Commission for the Relief of Belgium.

As one looks over the list of men whom Mr. Wilson put into positions of responsibility during the war there is no escaping the impression that he followed not the rule of party but the rule of personal trust and personal loyalty. Early in the conflict there was talk of a coalition cabinet similar to that which had been established in Great Britain and in other parliamentary governments abroad. But Mr. Wilson would not listen to it. He said that coalition cabinets meant constant wrangling and political friction. Throughout the government, however, many Republicans were appointed to positions of importance and in a general way no distinction as to party was made. The President's conception of his own responsibility led him to select only those whom he knew personally. With him loyalty counted for more than a reputed executive ability. Mr. Wilson always had a suspicion of the expert per se. The super-efficient business man who might be proposed as the most capable man to administer a certain job might be all that was claimed but Woodrow Wilson was a type of man who did not all like to be disturbed by thoughts that men in whom he had reposed large powers might not be loyal to him. And by loyal to him was meant simply a willingness to carry out the ideals and policies in public office which President Wilson had set as his standard.

It is interesting to note, however, that the President did not permit this line of reasoning to interfere in any way with the actual administration of the military or naval establishment. He did not dictate appointments to the General Staff nor did he question the activities of the naval command. To him the uniform was sacred and nobody in it could be other than loyal to the best interests of the government irrespective of party. Men like General Enoch Crowder, who had administered the selective draft act and General Peyton March, who was Chief of Staff in Washington, can testify to the free hand given them in the discharge of their duties. It was a policy that helped to win the war, though it brought about plenty of friction between the Executive and Congress.

The maneuvers of the Republicans in 1918 provoked President Wilson to issue an appeal for a Democratic Congress. Although Mr. Wilson outlined his famous fourteen points in Jaunary 1918, no dissent was heard in Congress. Senator Lodge did not express his opposition until the following August when he made a speech in the Senate which Mr. Wilson feared would give the impression abroad of disunity in American councils. On September 21st, Representative F. H. Gillett, acting floor leader for the Republicans, made a speech to the House insisting that a Republican Congress should be elected. Representative Fess of Ohio in accepting on the same day the chairmanship of the Republican congressional campaign committee, announced his purpose to work for the election of a Republican Congress. On October 23rd, the two former Presidents of the United States, Taft and Roosevelt, both Republicans, united in a joint appeal to the voters of the state of Michigan to support Truman H. Newberry who was the Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate in opposition to Henry Ford who was then running on the Democratic ticket.

Then former President Roosevelt sent an identical telegram to Senators Lodge, Poindexter and Hiram Johnson which was published on the morning of October 25th. Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I earnestly hope that on behalf of the American people the Senate will declare against the adoption in their entirety of the fourteen points of President Wilson's address of last January as offering a basis for a peace satisfactory to the United States."

The Colonel added that the fourteen points were "thoroughly mischievous" and if made the basis of a peace, "such a peace would represent not the unconditional surrender of Germany but the conditional surrender of the United States."

President Wilson regarded this as a challenge to his leadership. The Germans had already appealed for peace and on October 12th had promised that the fourteen points would be accepted as a basis for peace discussion. Under the circumstances the Roosevelt telegrams aggravated Mr. Wilson and made him apprehensive that he could not expect united support from the Republicans in making peace. The next day, October 26th, he issued his appeal to the American people for a Democratic Congress to support his peace program.

Mr. Wilson was accused during the months of September and October of getting ready to make a "soft peace" and his political opponents encouraged the formation of "Unconditional Surrender Clubs" throughout the country. These clubs were superfluous to all who knew the facts for President Wilson had placed entire confidence in Marshal Foch, Commander in Chief of the Allied Armies, who was to fix the military terms of the truce. Mr. Wilson did not attempt to participate in the making of the armistice terms by the Naval and Military High Command of the allied forces. It was not he who suggested that his previous addresses should be made the basis of peace negotiations. Germany chose that course. And the allies with proper reservations accepted the German peace proposal and the armistice was duly signed.

The approach of the end had been sensed in America. Indeed, Mr. Wilson for several months had been giving attention to the questions that would arise at the peace table and had expected that Colonel House who went abroad during 1917 would assist in the arrangements for peace.

Mr. Wilson anticipated political opposition to his peace program. Although he was partisan enough to wish to see the Democratic party continued in power, he was desirous, on the other hand, of winning a vote of confidence so that he might go to the Peace Conference with the united support of the nation behind him. Mr. Wilson's appeal for a Democratic Congress made in October 1918 was a shock to many Republicans who declined to read the text of what Mr. Wilson had said in his appeal but simply accepted the inference, in short, as meaning that he did not credit the Republicans with their proper share in winning the war. The President had said explicitly that he did not question the patriotism of his opponents. This was lost however in the wave of criticism and defeat which followed his appeal for a Democratic Congress.

But if Woodrow Wilson had his troubles on this side of the Atlantic with the national politicians, he had even more sources of worry with the international politicians. All through the war President Wilson had sought in vain to get an explicit agreement on the war aims of the allied and associated powers. Except for the vague general phrases which served their purpose in raising the hopes of the German people as well as the hopes of the allied countries, there was no definite understanding. Mr. Wilson's diplomatic exchange of notes with the British, French, and Italian governments during the months of September and October were notable efforts to commit the allies to a peace without rancor and a peace that would not sow the seeds of another war. Mr. Wilson strove for a peace without selfishness.

Men like Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain, Premier Clemenceau of France, and Premier Orlando of Italy were not as ready to embrace the Wilson idealism chiefly because their own peoples were not in the mood to be kind to the enemy who had given no quarter and had waged a relentless and ruthless battle on helpless men, women, and children—non-combatants on land and sea. Undoubtedly Mr. Wilson's views were those of far-seeing statesmen—they were the terms of dispassionate judgment not of anger or prejudice. But it was a materialistic atmosphere which Woodrow Wilson encountered on his arrival in Europe at the head of the American Peace Mission.

People everywhere cheered him. I shall never forget the triumphal drive of President Woodrow Wilson down the Champ d'Elysee of Paris or the fanatical welcome given him in the streets of Rome or the spontaneous outburst of the people of London and Manchester.

Mr. Wilson thought he had won public opinion to his side. It was true—for a while. What Mr. Wilson did not realize was that public opinion in Europe is not made as it is in America by the newspapers but solely by the officials in power and the professional cliques who control parliamentary governments. Just as soon as President Wilson began to interpose objections to the plans of the allied peacemakers, the press was turned against him with the simple ease that one lights a match to a fire. Liberal opinion in Europe stood by Woodrow Wilson, but it was helpless. The French press guided by the French government, and particularly Monsieur Clemenceau and his colleagues, kept up a constant bombardment of the Wilson policies. The French newspapers were convinced they were acting for the best interests of France and that Mr. Wilson's plans would mean insecurity. President Wilson agreed to many of the allied proposals even though he would have phrased them otherwise if they had been given to him alone to decide. The defects he accepted, however, because of a belief that the League of Nations would be a continuing peace conference, revising constantly the mistakes of the treaty and modifying those provisions which in actual practice might work hardship.

So President Wilson staked all to get the League of Nations established. The French were won over to the League idea only because of a belief that the international organization would be supplied with an army and navy sufficient to police the world and enforce the treaty. When Mr. Wilson refused to accept the idea of an international police force, some of the allied statesmen, particularly the French, were dismayed.

To one who was an eyewitness in Paris during the peace conference and who later watched at close range the debates in the United State Senate over the meaning of the League of Nations nothing could be more contradictory than the two situations. For in Paris it was Woodrow Wilson who was fighting almost the entire allied group in constituting a League of Nations which would be an interference with the sovereignty of any signatory power but an advisory body through which all the nations could act independently or jointly if they desired. In the Senate, however, the League proposel was hailed as a super-government and a surrender of American sovereignty.

There was a time when the French press criticised Mr. Wilson's refusal to go along with the allied plans for a strong League of Nations, backed by military force, because of a belief that the Republicans in the United States would certainly support the French militaristic idea. It was interesting, indeed, to see the French press completely out of tune with what the Republican party in the United States was actually seeking to accomplish, and it was not until many months after Mr. Wilson returned to America that Europe saw that the Republican party was drifting toward a policy of isolation while President Wilson was the true friend of international co-operation. Had Mr. Wilson's position been appraised sooner in Paris, he might have been listened to more sympathetically by the allied world.

Disappointment inevitably followed Mr. Wilson's inability to secure the ratification of the Versailles covenant of the League of Nations but even if he had accepted the reservations proposed by his political opponents, there will always be some question as to what the true value might have been of America's participation in the League in the years immediately following the war. For there developed in the United States a reaction against all things European, and, if the United States had entered the League technically as a member, the political situation in America would have prevented for a few years at least, the exercise by the United States of any considerable influence in European affairs.

The President of the United States possesses great powers of negotiation and co-operation which do not require specific treaty agreements but the temper of the opposition to further co-operation with Europe was such in 1919 that even a simple proposal to permit the United States to assume her place on the Reparations Commission failed of adoption when asked for apart from the Versailles treaty and as a direct method of making sure that the interests of the United States would be safeguarded in the all important councils of the Commission.

Mr. Wilson's mind was set on keeping the constitution of the League of Nations an integral part of the Versailles treaty because he believed that if the treaty settling territorial questions—in which America had a secondary interest—were completed, there would be no leverage for the acceptance of an international organization such as the League was intended to be. He rejected all suggestions for a separate conference on the question of an association of nations. He was convinced that the League would never be established if its formation were postponed until after the peace treaty itself was signed.

So far as the United States Senate was concerned Mr. Wilson felt that the main issue before it was the acceptance or rejection of the League because in the other portions of the treaty the United States sought no indemnity and had no desires for territorial gain insisting only upon freedom of commercial opportunity in all newly acquired regions.

No human being it seems could have survived the mental strain which rested upon Woodrow Wilson during the peace conference. Oppressed on every side by the demands on his time and aware of the sudden intrigue which had crept into the American organization in an effort to influence him, Mr. Wilson suffered his real breakdown in Paris. There was a time when his illness was so serious that it caused alarm to his household. After the few days of illness Mr. Wilson never seemed the same to his associates. Stung by the criticism that he had compromised too much, Mr. Wilson was adamant to the last days of the conference, refusing to concede anything and siding with the French in an insistence that the Germans be compelled to sign without modification the terms that had been proposed. Even the British were inclined to compromise and permit the Germans to make modifications, but the French would hear none of it and President Wilson, anxious to get back to America to secure the ratification of the treaty, concurred in the French view.

There developed inside the American Peace Mission distinct differences of opinion. Some of the advisers threatened to resign but fear of the misinterpretation of such a step back home prompted them to keep up the appearance of unity. There was one man who was no longer in the President's confidence—Colonel E. M. House. The story of the separation is significant of a strange influence which played its part in the life of Mr. Wilson.

(Tomorrow's chapter will deal with the true story of the separation of Colonel House and Mr. Wilson.).

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

MRS. ALLEN ENJOYS FIRST MEAL IN YEARS

Reduced by stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia almost to the appearance of a living skeleton, according to her own statement, Mrs. M. A. Allen of Springfield, Mo., declares that on the very first day she began taking Karnak, the sensational system rebuilder, she was able to eat a hearty meal and since that time has thrown off all the cares and trials of years of misery.

"For years I had to force every bite I ate and then I would have to pay for it with a horrible distress in my stomach, pains in my back, weakness and dizziness," says Mrs. Allen. "I looked almost like a skeleton and nothing seemed to help me.

"But the very day I bought my first bottle of Karnak I enjoyed a hearty supper without any bad results and Karnak has helped me ever since. My strength has come back and I feel like a new and different person."

Karnak is sold in Maryville exclusively by Maryville Drug Co.—Adv.

ROOMS

When a wise gardener wants to grow fine flowers he plants them in a good bed.

And it's the same story with us humans. The beds we sleep in at night pretty largely determine our days.

A drab and cheerless cubby-hole, dark and poorly ventilated, is no place for any man or woman who wants to be fit and happy. We are what we live in, to no small degree.

There's no greater satisfaction than a good room to go to each night. The man who is dissatisfied with his present quarters should find a room by using Democrat-Forum Want Ads.

It is an easy task to find a congenial room to live in if the little Democrat-Forum Want Ads are summoned to help.

Scenes for "Singer Jim McKee" Shot High Up in the Lofty Sierra Mountains

Some of the most beautiful and inspiring western scenery that has ever been photographed is seen in "Singer Jim McKee," William S. Hart's new Paramount picture, to be shown at the Empire Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

Penetrating into the high Sierras in California, the company secured scenes that have all the grandeur and inspiration of the real virgin mountain scenery.

The Hart production unit spent several weeks on location in the mountains, with headquarters in the picturesque town of Sonora—the actual locations of the story. The result are scenes that seem to breathe the very essence of the real wilderness.

"Singer Jim McKee" was written by William S. Hart. It is a typical Hart attraction—one of the most appealing pictures this he-man star has ever made. Phyllis Haver plays opposite in the leading woman's role. Bert Sprotte, Russell Gordon and others are also in the cast.

(By O. G. Null)

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith left last Saturday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Smith will undergo examination at the Mayo hospital to ascertain if possible the cause of her continued ill health.

Miss Velva Leech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Leech of Winifred, Montana, left for her home Thursday after having spent the winter at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Wray. While here she attended the Happy Hollow school and graduated from the eighth grade.

George M. Crowson of Chicago spent Wednesday night and Thursday at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Crowson. He returned to his work in Chicago via St. Joseph on Thursday afternoon.

Benoni Smail of Crescent City, Calif., arrived here Tuesday in response to a message informing him of the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Francis Smail, who has been very ill during the past week and whose condition does not seem to improve.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sadler and family of St. Joseph drove to Pickering last Saturday and spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of Mr. Sadler's brother, Chas. Sadler and at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. G. Swinford, Jr. They returned home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Logan and little daughter of St. Regis, Montana, are visiting this week at the home of Mr. Logan's sister, Mrs. J. S. Carmichael. Mr. Logan learned telegraphy in the Burlington station at this place some fifteen years ago and still follows that profession.

Miss Thelma Neal and Miss Genevieve Todd of Maryville visited the first of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fakes and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Lincoln.

Mrs. Fred Neil of St. Joseph and her daughter, Miss Nadine Neil, who is attending the State Teachers College at Maryville are visiting this week at the home of Mrs. Neil's mother, Mrs. Louisa Hinton and with other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Gray are setting up house keeping this week on one of L. H. Gray's farms two miles west of town. Mrs. Gray, who was Miss Iva Burns before her marriage recently closed her school near Parnell.

E. O. Gray shipped a load of White Face baby beeves of his own feeding to market on Wednesday of this week.

Dr. E. L. Crowson, who has been confined to his room for the past few months on account of trouble of the spine, has recovered sufficiently that he has taken up his office practice again, but will not make country drives for a while yet.

Byron Hanna, manager of the Farmers Exchange at this place, attended a meeting of managers of Co-operative stores in St. Joseph on Tuesday. John Mann accompanied him on the trip which was made in Mr. Hanna's car.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Latimer, and daughter, Alberta, Miss Alma Partridge and Ivor Latimer started Tuesday on a motor trip which may take them to the Pacific Coast before their return. They will travel in a special equipped Ford truck and will camp out en route. They may spend several months on the trip if they do not become tired of traveling.

Methodist Church

The Sunday School Board held an efficiency meeting at the parsonage Monday evening and devised several things "for the good of the order." Four substitute teachers were appointed and a committee on attendance was chosen. We want an average of 200.

Memorial Day will be observed at Myrtle Tree at 3 p. m. Sunday. Besides the memorial sermon by the pastor the young men's quartette of Pickering will sing some old war songs and Miss Helen Miller of Hopkins will give a patriotic reading. Memorial Day is a sort of home coming time for former residents who have friends buried in the beautiful cemetery there and a goodly number is expected.

Decoration Day, Friday, May 30, will be observed at Myrtle Tree with appropriate exercises. Dr. Fred Keller of the S. T. C. will speak at 2:30 p. m. and graves will be decorated immediately afterward.

Come to Sunday School at Pickering at 10 a. m. and remain for the union memorial service at 11:15 a. m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

Christian Church

Last Sunday was another good day in the Bible School with 137 present and $4.00 offering. But there is room for more. Come next Sunday and enjoy the fellowship as well as the lesson.

Several of the Pickering folks attended the services at Workman Chapel Sunday afternoon. The Chapel folks had a surprise basket dinner for their pastor, Bro. Taggart and family. 200 were present, including some from Maryville, led by the "Big Chief" Snodgrass.

Next Lord's Day there will be a union memorial service at the Methodist Church at 11:15 a. m.

The evening sermon will be entitled "Don't Fool Yourself." A glad hand of welcome awaits you at all services.

Mrs. L. D. Jordan of Skidmore went Monday to Omaha to visit her daughter, Mrs. O. L. Mecker, for a week.

Miss Laura Margaret Raines went to Clarinda last evening to spend the week-end with Miss Matie Price.

Ike Keeley and son, Ivan of Mound City were here today on business.

Mrs. Elva Gee of Burlington Junction spent yesterday with her brother, G. W. Aley and family.

Miss Bertha Schmauder and mother, Mrs. Anna Schmauder, and Mrs. Charles Peters of Burlington Junction, were in Maryville yesterday.

Mrs. Amy Healy returned last night from Amity, Mo., where she spent several days with relatives and friends.

She Is Not for Sale

That's the way a lot of families feel about good old Bossy. She has been a faithful friend of the family, giving all the milk they could use and even some for the neighbors.

Of course you always think that you feed her well, but do you? Just plenty of feed does not always mean proper feeding. Good old Bossie must have a ration that she can really turn into milk.

Cow Chow produces more milk and more butter fat because it contains elements that are deficient in the average ration. It keeps cows from robbing their bodies for milk-making nutrients and lengthens the milking period. By feeding Cow Chow you not only produce more pounds of milk, but you keep your cow in better condition.

Just try Cow Chow for a month, feed it as directed, and watch the difference.

MURDER CASE OF CHAS. HART ON TRIAL

'How far away were you?"

"About fifteen feet."

Buxton said that Hart was the first to fire a shot and that there was no one between the escaping man and Less.

Suspected of Being Holdup Man.

On cross-examination by John Heffley, one of Hart's attorneys, Buxton said that Hart was suspected of being a holdup man. Heffley asked the policeman if it were not true that he was shooting at Hart at the time that Less fell. "I was not," Buxton answered. "I did not begin to shoot until after Less fell."

"Isn't it a fact that you shot Charley Hart that night?" Heffley asked.

"I may have. If I did, it was not until after he shot Less."

Object to Deputy Sheriff.

The first delay came when Hart's attorneys objected to William Busch, deputy sheriff, having charge of the jury. By agreement, John Brown, night jailer, was appointed to take charge and stay with the jury until it finally is discharged.

Because of the illness of C. E. Smith, police detective ,and witness in the case, the state asked leave to indorse the name of W. W. Randall of Maryville, as a witness. It is expected to use his testimony in place of that of Smith. The defense immediately asked for a continuance, and Smith withdrew the name.

(Skidmore News)

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Miller and daughter, Eula, left Wednesday morning for a trip to the Hiawaiian Islands where they will spend a month or so with their son, Erman, who is teaching in the Mid-Pacific Institute at Honolulu.

They will go to San Francisco via Denver, Pueblo, Grand Junction and Salt Lake City. They will spend the day Sunday in Salt Lake City and attend the Mormon services. Will arrive in San Francisco Monday and sail on the steamship Maui, leaving San Francisco next Wednesday, the 28th, and arriving at Honolulu Tuesday, June 3.

On their return they expect to leave the Hiawaiian Islands on the ninth of July, and on the same steamer they went across on, unless they can get passport a few days sooner.

While there they expect to visit the Kilauea volcano, which has been exploding some during the past week.

Misses Lolabelle and Olathe Suetterlin of Maryville are visiting this week at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Baugher.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null of Orrsburg were city visitors today.

Equit Case of Mutti, et al, Up in Court

The equity case of Oscar Mutti, Sam Robbins and Jake Haaf of Hopkins against Howard Garrett, Knox Alexander and the executors of the estate of the late O. F. Wilson was being tried before Judge John M. Dawson this afternoon. The case is an outgrowth of a sale of 400 acres of land made by the plaintiffs to the defendants.

Can You Beat This?

Mrs. Chas. Manley, living southwest of town, sold in Barnard one day last week, eighty spring chickens weighing one and one-quarter pounds each, at 38 cents per pound. These chickens selling at the price they did will mean almost as much money as they would have brought, had they been kept until they weighed three pounds or better. If any one can beat this record for early spring fries, please report.—Barnard Bulletin.

Among visitors in Maryville today were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McKee of Ravenwood and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrett of Clearmont.

Services at Quitman.

The Rev. E. P. Taggert of Burlington Junction will give the memorial address at the M. E. Church in Quitman on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A program will also be given. The soldiers of the world war will attend in a body.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson of St. Joseph were in Maryville today.

Was Taken Home.

John Bailey of Quitman has returned home after an operation for appendicitis at St. Francis hospital.

Mrs. Ida Adle left this afternoon for Trinidad, Colo., after a visit in Maryville.

Mrs. Orville Colter, northwest of Maryville, was taken to St. Francis hospital yesterday.

You Can Control the Depth with this Leverless Cultivator

Accurate and easy depth control is a mighty important feature on a leverless cultivator. You have it when you use the

JOHN DEERE VB CULTIVATOR

To change the depth all you have to do is turn a tail nut within easy reach.

And, remember, the rigs on this cultivator always balance properly and handle easily, without any adjustments being necessary. This is because each weight of rig has a coupling sleeve especially designed to balance the rig when the lifting spring is attached.

The John Deere VB is extremely simple in construction, light in weight, and strong. Its wheel tread is easily adjustable for rows from 36 to 48 inches wide. The wheels are the strongest ever put on this type of cultivator. Seat arms are adjustable in height and provide forward and back adjustment for the seat. The hitch equalizes perfectly whether or not one horse lags behind the other.

You will find the John Deere VB a thorough worker, easy to operate and long-lived.

World's Largest Single Clothing Plant Offers You a Demonstrated $40 VALUE in Men's Serges at $29.50

The CLOTHCRAFT Shops in Cleveland are not only the world's largest clothing plant under one roof, but one of the most famous manufacturing institutions in existence. Manufacturing experts from every country on the globe come to inspect this plant and study its scientific manufacturing methods.

700,000 Suits a Year Capacity Cuts CLOTHCRAFT Prices for you!

Here are specific reasons why every CLOTHCRAFT Suit and Overcoat is $10.50 LOWER in price than the VALUE you'll find in the garment.

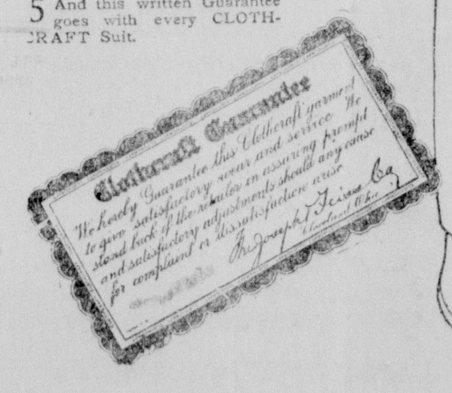
1 CLOTHCRAFT Clothing is manufactured in the world's largest single clothing plant . . . with a capacity of 700,000 garments a year. It is the most completely equipped plant in the clothing industry, and a plant that has developed manufacturing along such scientific lines that manufacturers from every country on the face of the earth come to inspect the plant whenever they come to America. You know what such manufacturing has done in other lines to cut costs. You get the CLOTHCRAFT Shops' manufacturing economies in the CLOTHCRAFT retail price!

2 Most of the important improvements in the manufacture of men's clothes in the last 20 years have originated in the CLOTHCRAFT Shops! That means that CLOTHCRAFT IS the pioneer in nearly every move that will give you more VALUE for what you pay.

3 The Joseph & Feiss Company, makers of CLOTHCRAFT Clothes, are the oldest manufacturers of men's clothing in America. They have been making honest clothes honestly for 78 years!

4 The VALUE that is built into CLOTHCRAFT Clothes is not a hidden promise, but quality that can be proved. For instance, a CLOTHCRAFT Coat can be soused into a bucket of water, thoroughly drenched, hung up, dried and repressed without in any way harming its fit, its good looks or its color! Tailoring of just that quality goes into every stitch that's taken in the entire Suit.

5 And this written Guarantee goes with every CLOTHCRAFT Suit.



Clothcraft Guarantee
We hereby Guarantee this Clothcraft garment to give satisfactory wear and service. We stand back of the maker in assuring prompt and satisfactory adjustments should any cause for complaint or dissatisfaction arise.

CLOTHCRAFT "5130" SERGE

$29.50

Save $10.50

THIS is the most wonderful value that has ever been offered to the men of this city. The most famous men's Serge in America. CLOTHCRAFT "5130" Serge! A $40 value at the $10.50-SAVING price of $29.50!

If you have been paying $40 or more for your Suits, come in and see this CLOTHCRAFT "5130" SERGE at $29.50. Try one on. See how the garment settles easily and comfortably, adjusting itself to your figure. CLOTHCRAFT is tailored to FIT.

Feel the "body" of the Coat. The shape is built in, stitch by stitch, to STAY! CLOTHCRAFT will keep its shape for seasons.

Look for the little details that give style and distinction . . . the clinging collar, the flat lapels, the fit of the neck, the hang of the sleeves. CLOTHCRAFT has style . . . sensible, enduring style in every line.

Then, feel the firm texture of that wonderful Serge. Whether you know fabrics or not, you'll KNOW that THIS fabric WEARS, and wears well . . . keeps its good looks and its shape.

You'll find as much 100c-on-the-dollar VALUE in a CLOTHCRAFT Suit as in any suit you ever paid $40 for . . . and it costs you $10.50 less for the simple reason that it's tailored in the most completely equipped men's clothing plant in America, by the most scientific manufacturing methods ever developed. That means ECONOMY . . . and you get the saving in the price of $29.50.

CLOTHCRAFT "5130" SERGES are offered in Blue, Gray and Brown in a variety of attractive Men's and Young Men's Models at $29.50.

Don't make the error of judging CLOTHCRAFT Clothes by the price-tickets! It can't be done! Every time you buy a CLOTHCRAFT Suit you save $10.50 on the price. It's a $40 value. A CLOTHCRAFT "5130" SERGE at $29.50 is NOT a $29.50 suit for the simple reason that it represents the most highly developed and scientific manufacturing in the United States of America. CLOTHCRAFT always gives you $10.50 more value than you find in any suit at the same price.

CLOTHCRAFT De Luxe Serges

The same wonderful VALUES are offered in a heavier weight Serge, CLOTHCRAFT "4130" DeLuxe Serge. In Blue, Gray and Brown. A finer quality of fabric for men who like the heavier weights. $36.50
